Town of Lee Property Values Update

Beginning in April 2021, appraisers from the firm of Cross Country Appraisal Group, LLC will begin an update of properties for the Town of Lee. This process will be completed over the next few months resulting in new values for the fall tax bill. All properties that have sold within the past two years (4-1-2019 to 4-1-2021) will be re-measured and listed. CLICK HERE for more information.

PLEASE NOTE NEW CLOSING TIME

FIRE PERMITS AVAILABLE ON LINE

According to the website for the NH Division of Forests and Lands, the cost of obtaining an online burn permit will increase from $3.00 to $5.50 effective March 31, 2021. The online transaction fee supports the development and management of the fire permit system. The fee increase will be used for upgrades and improvements to the system such as ease of use with devices, the ability to obtain multiple permits at one time and increased functionality for the local Forest Fire Wardens and fire departments. These changes are intended to streamline the fire permitting process and should significantly enhance the public's experience obtaining their permits. The Town of Lee and State of New Hampshire do not receive any portion of these fees. Permits may be obtained online: <https://nhdflweb.sovsportsnet.net/> or by utilizing the following QR code:

Please keep in mind that seasonal permits may be obtained through the site for Category I and Category II burn permits. Seasonal permits must be renewed annually and are valid until December 31st of that year.

One Bin at a Time – Office Paper and Magazines

Talking trash with Jen Messeder, LSC member

Old habits are hard to break. We get it. And having the old Mixed Paper bin divided and re-defined is surely shaking up our old habits. It's been a few months now, and we were curious how it's going.

On the left side, we're doing pretty well getting magazines and magazine-like catalogs in there.

However, some food boxes are also getting in there, so we have some room for improvement. (Food boxes are trash now, sadly.)

On the right side, we need to do a bit more work to break those old Mixed Paper habits. This side is strictly for plain (not shiny) office-type paper items. No cardboard of any kind.

And open those Valpak envelopes – the envelope itself is office-type paper, but the contents are often shiny paper.

- Basic 8.5x11 and similar paper of any color or size
- Copy paper
- Plain (not shiny) paper
- Lined notebook paper, graph paper
- Envelopes (plastic windows are okay)

If you're not sure if a thing is made of plain paper, try these "look and feel" tests.

Look – If the item is shiny like a magazine page, it's trash.

Feel – You're feeling for medium weight:

- If it feels like the type of paper you might use in a printer, it's office paper.
- If it feels like tissue paper, a business card, a post card or a cereal box, it's trash.

History of Agriculture as Told by Barns. Wednesday April 7 at 7:00 PM via Zoom. Hosted the New Hampshire Humanities Council, the Lee Public Library and the Lee Historical Society.

Presenter: John C. Porter

Barns can tell us a great deal about the history of agriculture in New Hampshire. In the colonial period, New Hampshire was a rural, agrarian state and small subsistence farms dotted the landscape. An important part of these farmsteads was the barn, which housed animals and stored crops. Early barns used traditional building methods and followed the English barn style, with a low pitched roof and doors under the eaves. As time went on, the farms expanded to accommodate changes in agriculture. This presentation will follow the progression of barn styles that evolved to handle the increased productivity required to meet the needs of a growing population and respond to changes in society caused by the railroad and the Industrial Revolution. John C. Porter, author of Preserving Old Barns: Preventing the Loss of a Valuable Resource, will demonstrate how these majestic barn structures represent Yankee ingenuity, hard work, and skilled craftsmanship, as well as providing a link to our past that adds to the state's scenic beauty.

OYSTER RIVER COOPERATIVE SCHOOL DISTRICT SCHOOL BOARD NEWS March 17, 2021

School Board members including Student Representative Megan Deane and Superintendent Morse expressed appreciation for the leadership of Thomas Newkirk who served as School Board Chair for the last 7 years. Dr. Newkirk continues to serve as a School Board member.

Andre Kloetz of Bauen Construction provided an update on the new Middle School construction. Construction is now over 42% complete. Interior framing as well as mechanical, electrical, and pumping installation is in full swing. The dark blue layer on the exterior is a rubber sealant and is now being covered with 3 inches of foam insulation and fireproof plywood. Additional insulation is being installed on the inside of the exterior walls. The existing ORMS gymnasium will be demolished beginning over April school vacation. To make way for driveway and parking lot work.

Kendall Gray and Maggie Morrison, ORCSD Sustainability Coordinator, presented a greenhouse gas inventory for the school district. This is the first study of its kind for a public-school district in New Hampshire and will inform a Sustainability Management Plan for the district.

April 19, 2021 will be teacher workshop days with no school for students. This is a change to accommodate the vaccination of all ORCSD and Barrington school staff as well as licensed childcare and youth rec program personnel. The vaccination pod is being run by Strafford County Public Health Network at ORHS.

The School Board approved Dr. Morse's request to begin planning for a 5-days-per-week, full day school model. The district wants to have plans in progress should the State order a change. No decisions have been made yet about implementation. The School Board will meet on March 24, 2021 in a workshop meeting to discuss planning progress.

The School Board workshop is a public meeting, but with a limited agenda. The school board will not take any actions or votes. Workshop meetings are generally not televised and do not include public comments. The public is always invited to provide input by email to orcdsb@orcscd.org. The next regular meeting of the School Board including public comments is scheduled for April 7, 2021.

In order to allow staff to focus on planning for the potential 5-full-day model, the elementary schools will not add Wednesdays as synchronous learning days in April as previously announced.
